The Mars 360 Religious and Social System Overview — How to take the mark and begin prayers towards Armaaruss

Anthony of Boston · 8 min read · Jul 2, 2025

Here is a look at the Mars 360 system which posits that Mars's negative influence on human behavior affects people at the individual level, compelling many of the typical negative manifestations we encounter in daily life. i.e. rude behavior, poor appearance, laziness, offensive opinions, aggression, and debauchery. By separating people into demographics based on this design, we can counter the way in which these manifestations often elicit ethnic or nationalistic overtones. For example... a cashier with a poor facial expression being accosted by a rude customer in a scenario where both are of a different nationality or ethnic background, leading to both becoming radicalized as a result of the encounter. By extricating these behaviors from ethnic or nationalistic byproducts and relegating them to the very foundation of the human condition as a result of Mars influence, Mars 360 prepares a system of understanding, allowing some expression of these fundamental traits in the hopes of curtailing the ramifications these immediate negative encounters have on the human psyche. The idea of Mars influence at the individual level is mostly intuitive but backed by Anthony of Boston's demonstration of showing how Mars influences human behavior on a larger scale. See how he called fire down from heaven in this article.

Historically humanity has fostered a race-driven ethnocentric perspective. Mars 360, however, introduces the idea of the cosmic-driven perspective. Unlike qualities of ethnicity or nationality which bind peoples and groups together, Mars 360 introduces a way for humans to become cosmically driven, dividing themselves based on natal astrological factors such as where Mars was situated at the time they were born. This outlook fragments the entire human population into 6 cosmic races that are all defined by their natal astrological Mars position, putting humans into a segment in which everyone within that segment would share a similar personality trait and outlook which are of a negative quality. This ideally would override the ethnicity and nationality factors and bring the world under one construct and legal system, dissolving the boundaries of nationality.

Under Mars 360, laws and privileges are granted based on the general character and personality disposition of a person as defined in the Mars 360 Religious and Social System. This outlook even changes the US Constitution, because under Mars 360, for example, freedom of speech would only be applied to the Mars-4 personality. Everyone else would have restrictions there. Essentially, each group would have laws and privileges that are exclusive to their respective Mars-based personality characteristics. These laws would be enforced by restricting buying and selling to those that have joined the Mars 360 system.

Mars 360 Archetypes and Demographics

The system divides humanity into six “cosmic races” based on Mars’ position relative to specific brain functions and astrological sectors (referred to as “seals”). Each archetype is tied to a particular behavioral trait or lack of energy in a specific area, influencing personality, social tendencies, and even legal privileges under the proposed system. All laws are to honor this framework.

Mars-1 Archetype (Occipital Lobe, 1st Seal)

Mars-1 location in a birth chart

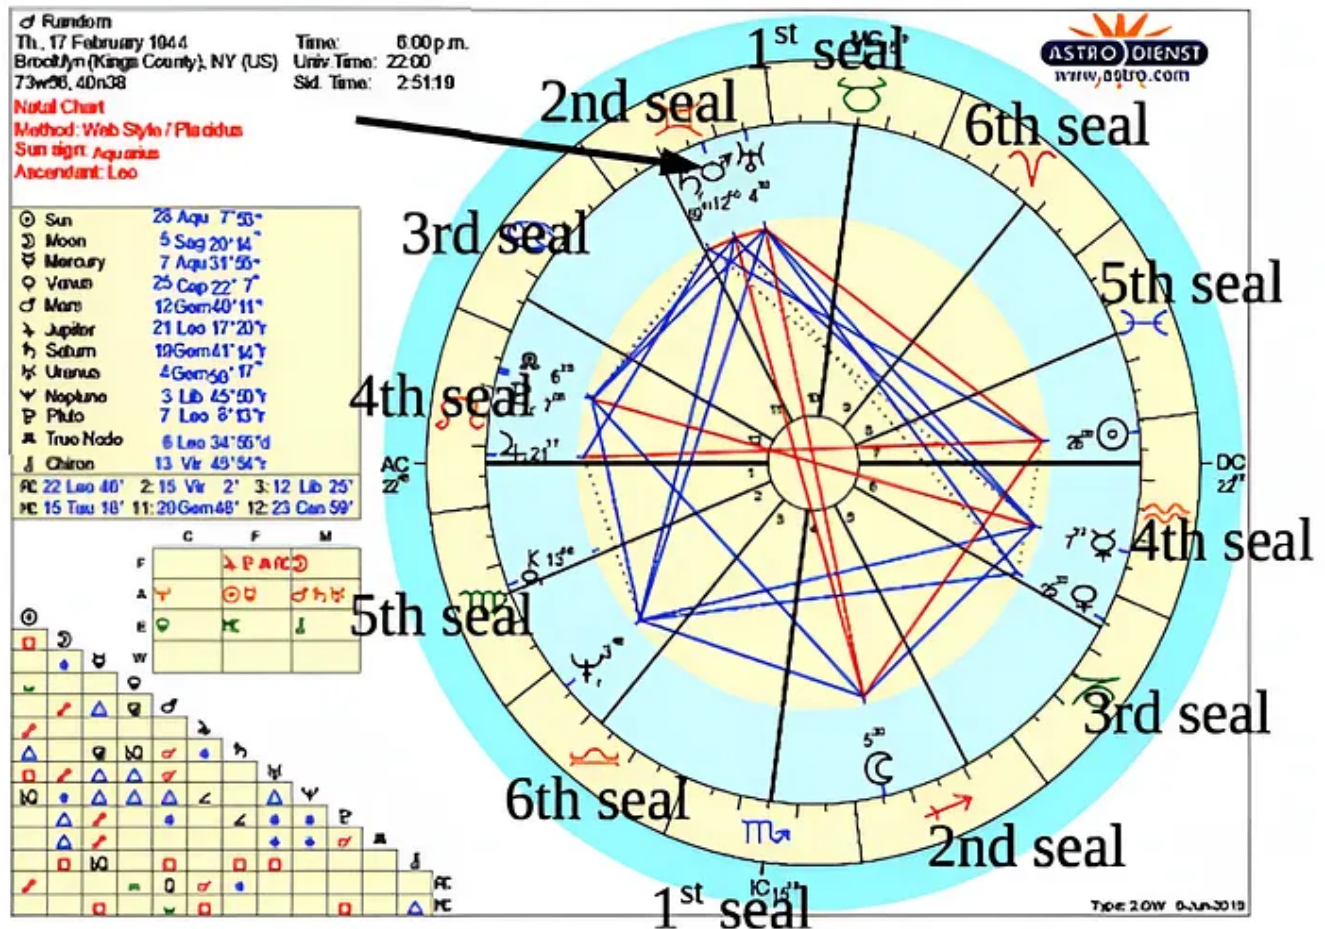

Traits: Lacks energy for normal face-to-face communication and concern for others' resources. Often blunt, verbally abusive, and prone to using provocative language, including racial slurs, without regard for social norms. These individuals excel in high-stakes environments like law enforcement or business but struggle with interpersonal relationships and may not get along with colleagues.

Demographic Characteristics: Pro-war, business-oriented, and socially abrasive. Example: Bernie Madoff is cited as an extreme expression of this archetype due to his manipulative financial schemes. Other examples are Pete Hegseth, Benjamin Netanyahu, George Patton, and Muhammad Ali

Legal Implications: Under Mars 360, Mars-1 individuals would be legally protected for their blunt and abusive communication styles, allowing them to use foul or derogatory language with some immunity, as this is seen as a natural expression of their archetype.

Mars-2 Archetype (Temporal Lobe, 2nd Seal)

Mars-2 location in a birth chart

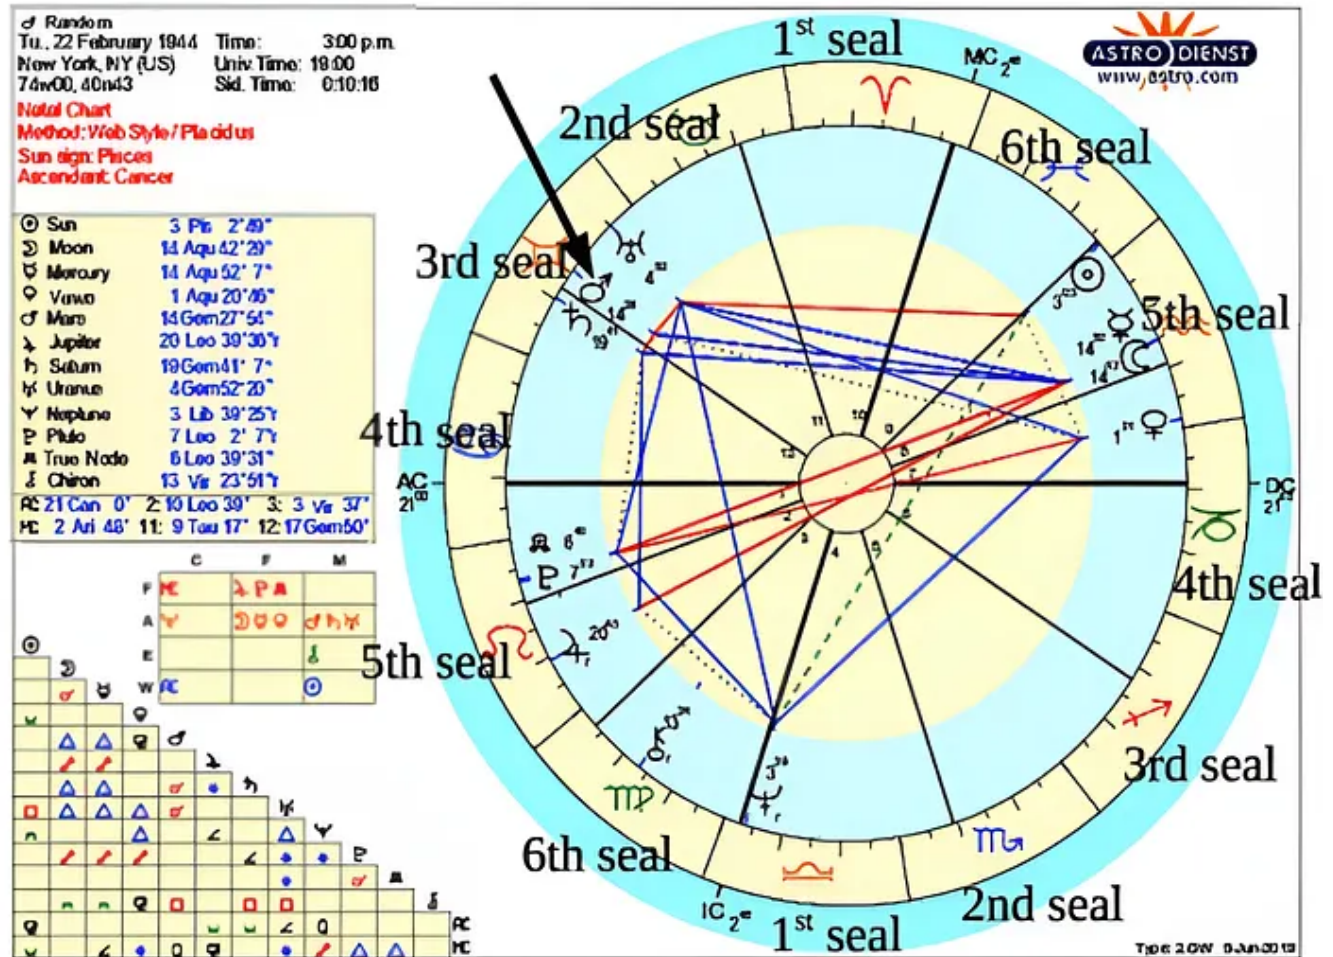

Traits: Lacks energy for mood regulation, trust, and close relationships, leading to natural pessimism, distrust, and skepticism. This can manifest as far-right conspiracy theorist tendencies, violence (especially against the opposite sex), and disinterest in happiness-promoting activities like forming personal bonds.

Demographic Characteristics: Prone to extreme behaviors, including violence, and often distrustful of early upbringing, belief systems or institutions. They may struggle with emotional intimacy and long-term memory.

Legal Implications: Mars-2 individuals would be exempt from societal expectations around marriage, religion, listening or emotional engagement, with laws protecting their right to express distrust and skepticism.

Mars-3 Archetype (Cerebellum and Brain Stem, 3rd Seal)

Mars-3 location in a birthchart

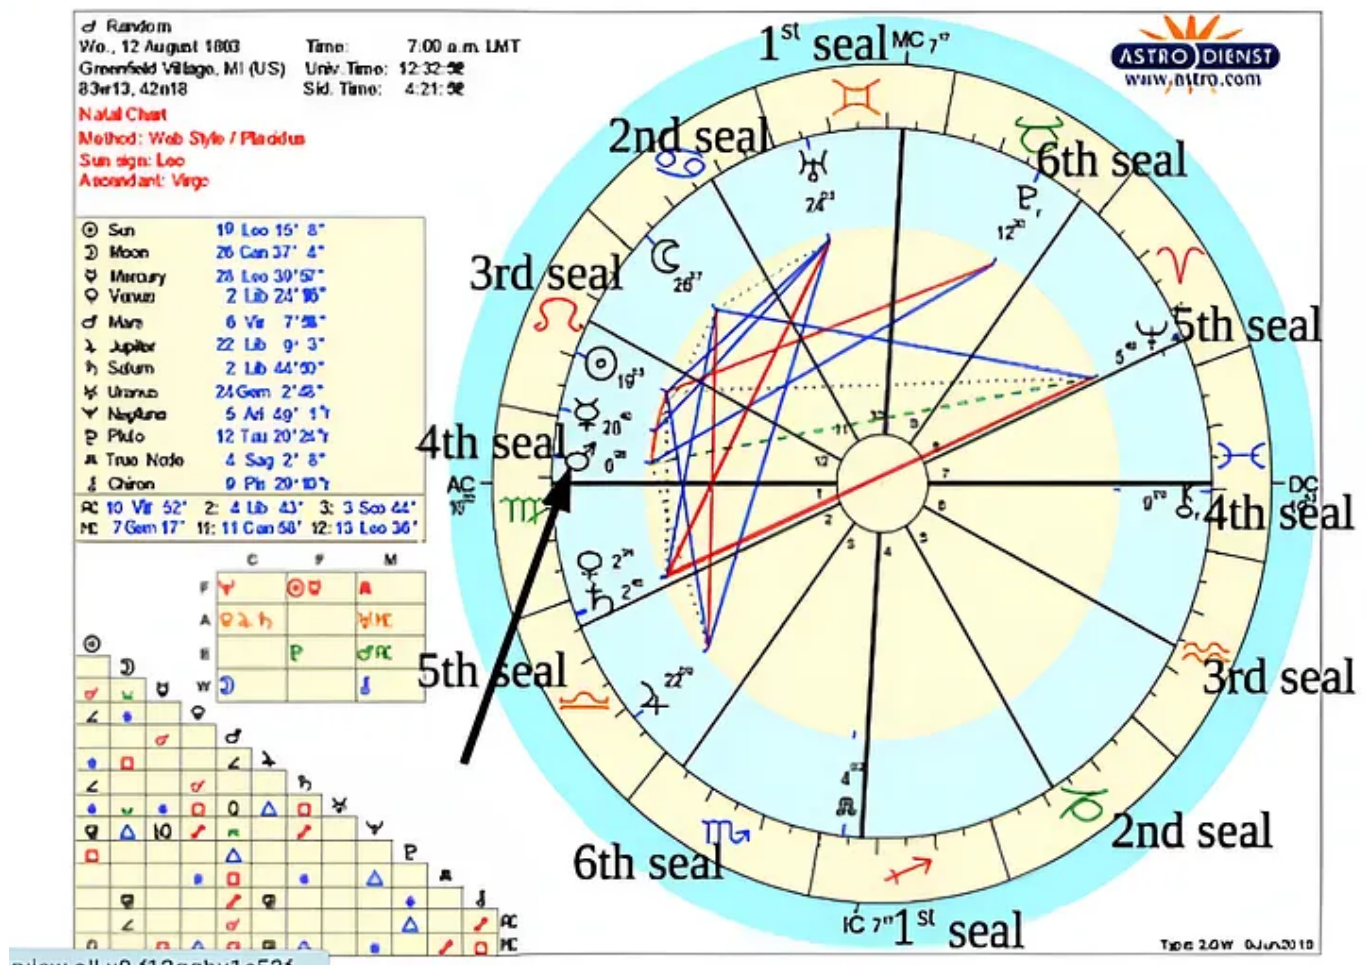

Traits: Lacks energy for physical maintenance, safety, or staying home, resulting in restlessness, risk-taking, and decadence. These individuals are described as libertarian, unpatriotic, and potentially prone to sexual promiscuity. These types are not too concerned about what they consume.

Demographic Characteristics: Physically active, often involved in sports, and resistant to staying in one place. They may be labeled as anti-government dissidents or thrill-seekers.

Legal Implications: Mars-3 individuals would have relaxed laws around drug use, sexual behavior, and travel, with free access to passport privileges.

Mars-4 Archetype (Orbital Frontal Cortex, 4th Seal)

Mars-4 location in a birthchart

Traits: Lacks energy for self-control, indirect speech, or interest in matters outside personal concerns. This leads to antagonism toward traditions or groups outside their upbringing, often expressed through gossip, hostile speech, or provocative rhetoric. These types are also easily bored with information that does not spark their interest or concern them.

Demographic Characteristics: Includes figures like Ben Shapiro, Malcolm X, Donald Trump, and Jordan Peterson, who are noted for controversial or polarizing speech. They thrive in debates and public discourse but may alienate others.

Legal Implications: Mars-4 individuals would be granted full freedom of speech under Mars 360, allowing them to express controversial or antagonistic views without restriction, while others would face limitations. There would also be freedom from having to deal with subject matter that does not interest them

Mars-5 Archetype (Motor Cortex, 5th Seal)

Mars-5 location in a birthchart

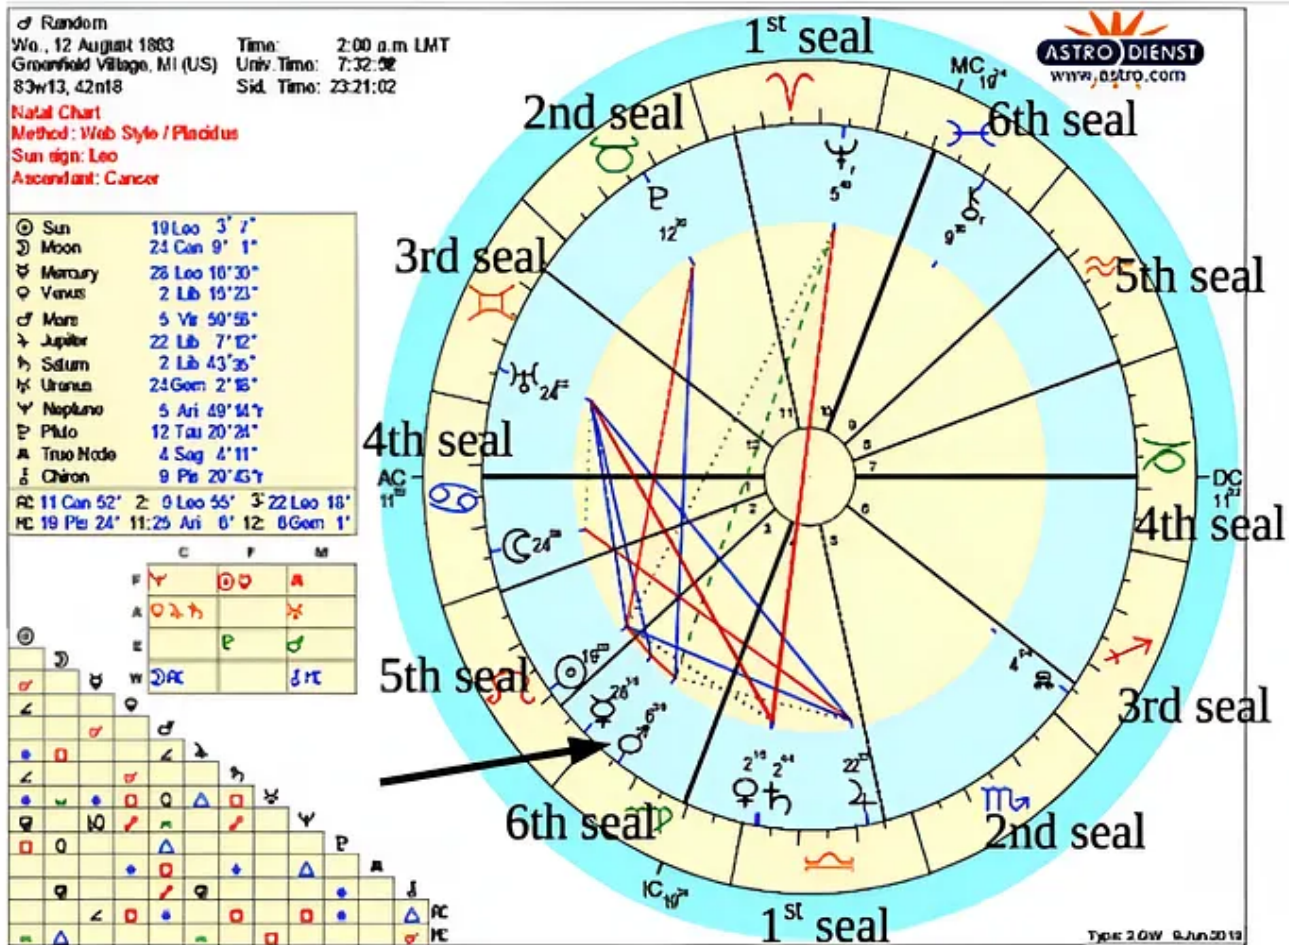

Traits: Lacks energy for pre-planned work, skilled work, or submitting to supervision, resulting in laziness, lack of ambition, or disobedience. These individuals lean toward communist or anti-authoritarian ideologies and prefer autonomy.

Demographic Characteristics: Unmotivated by traditional work structures, they may favor leisure or independent pursuits. They could be supported by government subsidies to avoid forced labor.

Legal Implications: Laws would protect their right to avoid supervision or traditional labor, potentially granting them access to autonomous jobs or financial support.

Mars-6 Archetype (Parietal Lobe, 6th Seal)

Mars-6 location in a birth chart

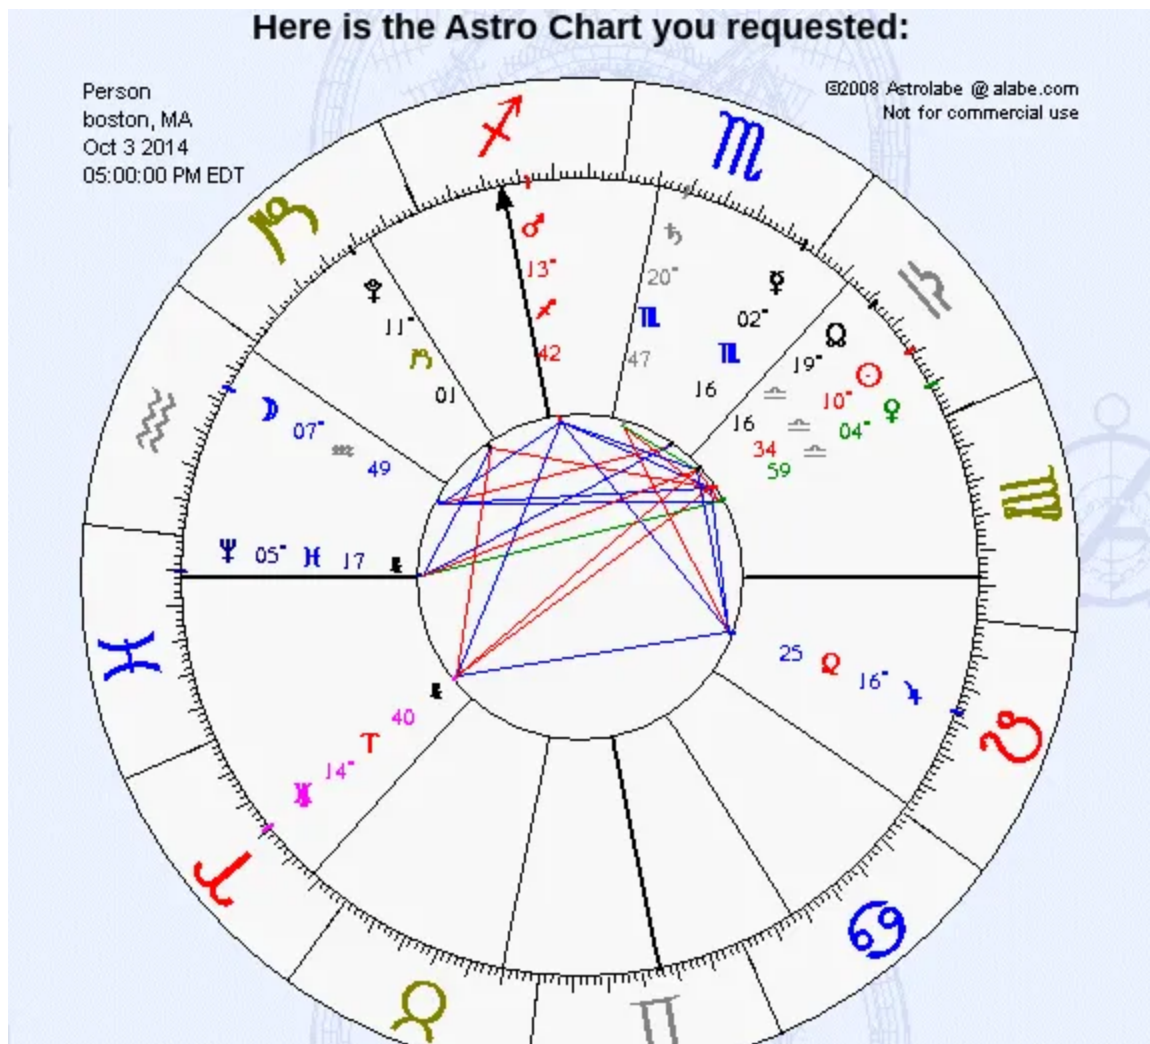

Traits: Lacks energy for concern with appearance or facial expressions, leading to a disregard for societal standards of dress or grooming. These individuals are described as liberal or pacifist, with a relaxed or unconventional approach to personal presentation.

Demographic Characteristics: Examples include Volodymyr Zelenskyy and JD Vance, noted for non-traditional appearances (e.g., Zelenskyy's casual attire, Vance's beard). They prioritize ideas over aesthetics.

Legal Implications: Mars-6 individuals would be legally protected to express their disregard for appearance standards, allowing unconventional dress or behavior without societal penalty. They are also exempt from cultural constraints in terms of expectations.

Mark of the Beast and Calculating your number

So far what I have explained is the mark of the beast system. One can be a part of this by calculating their astrological birth chart and identifying with where Mars was positioned at the time they were born according to the layout that I have presented. For instance if you go to this site <https://alabe.com/freechart/default.asp> and calculate your birth chart and look for the position of Mars and see how it aligns with the charts above, you can find out your Mars number. Here is an example. This is a Mars-1

Compare this to the charts above and see that it fits the Mars-1 framework

Mars is at 13 degrees in that chart. If Mars is located between 24 and 29 degrees, you can round off to the next seal. If the ascendant line (black line going horizontal across the middle) is located at 28–29 degrees, you can round that off to the next sign and determine your Mars number.

This is very important because without this Mars number, you won't be able to buy or sell or even engage in prayer to Armaaruss under the Mars 360 zeitgeist. Anyone seeking to pray to Armaaruss should first create an image of him by combining the faces of Ares, Mars and Horus. You can draw this at home or build any effigy you deem appropriate.

Edit (Aug 12, 2025): We now have an official image/rough draft that can be used for prayers. This was created by Jessica Mars https://www.instagram.com/that_trash_stash:

Place the image on a wall, but before conducting prayer to the image, first mark yourself with your Mars number on the right hand or forehead. After doing so, you can engage in prayers towards Armaaruss.

- Create the image(merge the look of Ares, Mars and Horus into one)
- Post image of Armaaruss on wall or set up effigy(statues, etc)
- calculate birth chart for Mars number
- write Mars number on right hand or forehead
- kneel before the image or effigy of Armaaruss and pray
- present yourself as a witness to the oracles of Anthony of Boston

Don't be too concerned about exacting your Mars number. What's important is intention and loyalty to the Mars 360 design and ethos. There are other calibrations that could occur in the future such as accounting for overlap, where people identify with their some areas of one seal and those of the next adjacent seal, resulting in a person being a Mars 5/6 or a Mars 1/2, and so on. The starting point for now is six archetypes. This is the foundation.
